ATTORNEY WAXES HOT

Lawyer Has to Apologize Humbly to the Court.

That Attorney Straus failed to be adjudged in contempt of court yesterday before Judge Whitney, the police magistrate, is largely due to the leniency of his honor. The incident came up in the long-drawn-out case of the Territory against Frank C. Bertelmann, charged with gross cheat.

Judge Whitney charged Straus, who is counsel for Bertelmann, with prevaricating. He did not mince his words at all and scored the attorney, who up to that time had been playing to the galleries and resembled a broken down tragedian in reaching climaxes with witnesses.

It all came about through Mr. Myers, who for many years was milk inspector with the Board of Health. Straus objected to Myers sitting in the court. The court informed Straus that Myers was there as a spectator, and as he was not conducting the trial behind closed doors, Myers had a perfect right to be present.

Straus then seized a subpoena which had already been served for other witnesses who had put in an appearance and placed the name of Myers and turning to a court officer, said theatrically:

"Mr. Officer, serve that subpoena!"

His Honor shut off this proceeding by peremptorily ordering the officer to do nothing of the kind. On examination of the subpoena it was found that it had been served on others and the court informed Straus that it was dead paper.

Straus vehemently protested and said that the court was obstructing him in the performance of his duty, and added some heated words which caused Judge Whitney to stiffen in his chair. He was outwardly calm, but a flush on his cheeks showed that he was repressing a desire to do something to the audacious attorney.

His Honor then informed Mr. Straus that he was deliberately prevaricating when he uttered that charge. He flashed on Straus in a manner which caused the latter to calm down and half-heartedly apologize.

At various times during the day Straus referred to the court's alleged obstruction in the subpoena matter, and when the court was about to adjourn, Judge Whitney said:

"I wish to refer again to Mr. Straus' statement about the subpoena matter. I wish to withdraw the statement that I made earlier in the day that he deliberately prevaricated, as he has stated since that he had no deliberate intention to prevaricate. However, I wish to state that Mr. Straus, having first said that I obstructed him in any way, made a statement which is false and without any truth, or scintilla of truth whatever."

Straus by this time had his hat and smiling sardonically started to walk out of the courtroom, but thinking better of it, returned before the bar and said that he apologized for his words and his conduct, adding that he did not wilfully prevaricate. "In the heat of controversy we sometimes say things that we do not mean to say, and that is what occurred with me," he therefore, apologized to the court.

With that he turned on his heels and walked out of the room.

One of the last witnesses examined yesterday afternoon was a Chinaman of Moiliili, named Chang Soon, whose appearance on the stand aroused

Straus. He claimed that he was put on the stand by the prosecution to impeach Bertelmann. However, the testimony was admitted and the Chinaman made some very damaging statements as to Bertelmann's business with him. The Chinaman said in answer to a question as to what Bertelmann had represented himself to be:

"He say the money for American government under new law. He no say it was for ad in book. First, he ask me for dollar and I say I have plenty of children and can not give dollar. I tell him I give half dollar, and he say all right. So I give him dollar. He take 'em and give me piece paper."

The paper was a blank piece of brown paper without any printing on it.

The case was continued until this morning.

ALL TALKED CHICKEN

had recently had a lot of white-faced black Spanish—stolen.

A discussion on pigeons ensued and as a result it was resolved to charge $1 per pair entrance fee for these interesting birds.

There were quite a number of pigeon fanciers present and barbs, fantails, pouters, and runts figured extensively in the conversation.

The number of past exhibitors is apparently large, judging by the popular form of addressing the chair. "At all the poultry shows I've ever seen and I've exhibited at a great number of them."

Will E. Fisher suggested that it would provide an additional attraction for the show if a large number of homing pigeons were turned loose each day at a certain hour.

At this juncture a man arose who wanted to know if a dove was a pigeon or a pigeon a dove. The chair promised to look the matter up and as the thing stands any dove owners will enter their birds in the pigeon class.

Charlie Frazier stated that he had a pair of black swans and wanted to know if they were pigeons or doves. He was informed that his swans might be geese, but they were certainly not pigeons or doves.

Someone asked if there was a class for canaries and yet another would like to show a choice peacock.

Walter E. Wall wanted a bird to be allowed to win as many prizes as it was capable of. He thought that by this means standards might be improved and common or dunghill fowl eliminated.

He was also in favor of judging by scoring by card instead of by comparison. Scoring, he insisted, would educate exhibitors as to the good and bad points of their stock.

Wall also wanted it made possible to enter a protest against the judge's decision.

"If the judge got jagged," said he, "such a protest would be very much in order."

Finally he suggested that the rules of the show, as passed at a previous meeting, be superseded by the rules governing the American Poultry Association, which he referred to as being simple and to the point and suiting the present case precisely.

This was put in the form of a motion and lost.

Fisher moved that the rules governing the exhibition be gone over one at a time for possible revision.

A. V. Gear opposed the motion, saying that the committee had drawn up the rules after careful consideration and that they should be allowed to go at that.

The motion was lost. Fisher moved that the judging be done by the score card system. Motion lost.

Gear in opposing the above motion said that later on the score card system might be a good thing, but that if used at the first show might frighten probable competitors away.

J. K. Brown was of the opinion that if the judge was to be an importation from the Coast the score card should be used. If the judge were a local man he doubted if he would be able to score by card.

C. R. Frazier remarked that a man who couldn't judge by score wouldn't be a competent judge anyway. A motion to import a judge was lost. It was finally decided to leave the selection of a judge to the board of directors.

PAPER HAS A BIRTHDAY

Many Celebrate 3000th Issue of Japanese Journal.

There was a big celebration last night at the office of the Hawaii Shingo Sha, the Japanese newspaper owned and conducted by C. Shiozawa, in honor of the issuance of the three thousandth number of the paper.

The announcement was also made of the successful thirty candidates in a voting contest who are to be the especial guests of the Shingo at a banquet to be given on some future Sunday to be decided upon shortly by the thirty.

Proprietor Shiozawa was the host and the editorial and type-setting rooms on the second floor of the newspaper offices was devoted to the reception of the guests. In one of the small rooms were tables on which were spread lobster and potato salads, sandwiches and in ice-bound tubs near by were dozens of bottles of beer, and in a cooler, not very far away, reposed a number of bottles of champagne.

On the metal awning outside the second story window a platform had been erected, on which was placed a kinetoscope machine and a stereopticon, from which were flashed upon a screen erected in a yard opposite, pictures of the late war, both on land and sea, humorous pictures, and photographs of the Japanese Emperor and Empress, Admiral Togo and other prominent people of the sunrise empire.

One of the main displays on the stereopticon was the picture of the thirty successful candidates who had been voted for by the subscribers of the Hawaii Shingo. The leader in this voting contest was Mr. Takakuwa, a Nuuanu street merchant.

The plan of the contest was to vote for men in a number of professions and the three highest in each division were chosen by the judges. The successful candidates were as follows:

Merchants—Messrs. Takakuwa, Yamamoto, Okido.

Hotel men—Messrs. Kobayashi, Kanjo, Shinsuiga.

Physicians—Dr. Uchida, Dr. Oyama, Dr. Haida.

Barbers—Messrs. Doi, Sekiya, Yoshiga.

Tailors—Messrs. Matsuki, Fujimoto, Matsuda.

Restaurant proprietors—Mochizuki, Sunouchi, Seichikan.

Hack and Draymen—Daimaru, Fujita, Tanabe.

Small Farmers—Mr. Kuwabara of Hamakupoko, Maui; Mr. Sano of Kahuku, Oahu; Mr. Wakita of Honolulu.

Artists—Mizutani, Ono, Akimoto.

Interpreters—Negoro, Tashiro, Saka.

As each candidate's picture was flashed on the screen a shout of approval went up. Many of the successful candidates being present, Proprietor Shiozawa adjourned to the ante-room, and starting with glasses of beer, felicitations were exchanged. Later on in the evening champagne was indulged in, to which the guests did justice, while shouts of "Banzai! Banzai!" could have been heard a block away. Among the foreign guests were United States District Attorney Breckons, United States Marshal Hendry, Secretary E. M. Boyd of the Promotion Committee, and representatives of each of the daily papers. All the Japanese newspapers were also represented.

It is said that according to Proprietor Shiozawa's plans, all the money that he would receive for additional subscriptions up to the close of the contest, would be devoted to the entertainment of the candidates and friends, and that this fund amounted to about $1500. This being the case, the celebration of the issuance of the 3000th number of the Hawaii Shingo will be one of the largest events of the kind celebrated in Honolulu in recent years.

Even the Taft reception, as far as cost is concerned, will dwindle into insignificance. The Shingo of September 25 says:

"The settlement of arrangements for the entertainment and of how the money shall be spent, is left to committees and to the thirty who are elected as winners in the great contest. The plan as outlined now is to invite all the subscribers of the paper to a day's entertainment on some Sunday, having a programme of games and other entertainments for them, probably at Mochizuki. This is a matter to be settled by the committees concerned, and by the thirty men elected. These will be called to meet and discuss the proposition, also to decide how the proceeds of the contest shall be spent. The day's sports are to be followed by a banquet to the thirty, at which there will be a number of invited guests."

The votes numbered many thousands and brought to the Shingo something over $1500.

MILLIONAIRES ON EARTH

John D. Rockefeller's fortune is not less than $500,000,000.

There are now 10,087 known millionaires (more than one-half of whom—5027—are in America), their fortunes totalling $9,000,000,000. Every state and territory is represented in the list, and one millionaire, an Indian, Melvin Dempson, is in Alaska. Nearly all of the remaining 5,060 millionaires are in Europe, though Asia has 900 and Africa and South America each have their share.

In 1486 Moses Y. Beach printed a list of New York City's rich men. He gave the names of 1024 possessing $100,000 each, and of 23 men with $1,000,000 each. Now only millionaires are counted among the rich, and there are 1300 of them in New York City alone.

In Australia Sir Jervoise Clarke has a sheep ranch worth $150,000,000; and in South Africa "Abe" Benley is so rich that he gave $50,000,000 acres of valuable land as a contribution to the Salvation Army.

Among the millionaires of London Sir Thomas Lipton's $25,000,000 is "small fry" when compared with estates such as that of the infant Earl Grosvenor, valued conservatively at $80,000,000, or that of the premier Duke of Norfolk, whose income is $7500 a day.

We are drawing no morals in this article, yet one is forced at least to think, and think profoundly, when he learns that there are many very wealthy men, including forty-nine millionaires, in Russia, and not one in Japan save the Mikado himself. The entire nation, according to the Tiji Shingo, Tokyo's leading financial journal, holds but 441 fortunes of as much as $250,000 each, and these are Japan's richest. Our Senator Clarke or Mr. Flagler could either of them buy out the entire 441. And yet Japan has no paupers. It is a land of people well drilled, of farms well tilled, of pockets well filled. Their wealth is evenly distributed. On the other hand, Russia's rich are lavishly elegant in their manner of living beyond anything mere money has made possible in other hands. Not a duke or a prince of the blood but indulges in magnificent extravagance which make the accidental gasp with amazement. What has been said of those of Russia, judging from the result of Russia's contest with the Japanese; it is that we sorrow, not that these Russians have so much money, but that they seem to have nothing else.

The czar has always been called the richest man in the world, and his fortune is set at $1,200,000,000, but Muzaffar, the Shah of Persia, wears a green stone in his turban worth $4,000,000, and whatever Persia herself is worth is his. Considering the growth in individual wealth since the days of Moses Beach, we are justified in fearing a development of money power during the next fifty years that will be full of peril. The safety of a nation is in the diffusion of its wealth.—From the Cent Per Cent.
